

Surviving physics is an accomplishment! You want to check a homework answer with others in the class, but who do you trust? Be careful, no one wants to give their full answer away - just hints.

Here's some survival guide rules to know who to trust:

Just as someone no one trusts, is not to be trusted, so is someone who trusts everyone.

The more people who trust you, the more your trust is valued.

Therefore you must trust only the people the most trusted person trusts.